EDWARD F. SPARKS
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Greetings:

The ultimate indicator of the value of school athletic programs must be the level of citizenship displayed by those who participate. Hence, teaching and living good sportsmanship is the fundamental objective of our program.

The "Respect the Game" initiative speaks to the heart of sportsmanship. There are no fancy strategies or lofty exhortations. There are no official pronouncements or haughty platitudes. The message is simple and direct. Let all of our actions be guided by respect. To achieve that goal, everyone is targeted in a way that relates to their individual circumstances yet collectively achieves a common goal.

This booklet offers a few key points as a reminder that everyone has a role to play in educationally related athletics. I invite you to use this resource in your efforts towards promoting good citizenship through sportsmanship. It is the first in a series of aids we plan to share as the MPSSAA brings focus to the theme "Respect the Game." There can be no greater objective for us all.

Respectfully yours,

Edward F. Sparks
Executive Director, MPSSAA

Never Forget To Respect the Game

Coaches

Respect the Game

- Respect the rules by teaching athletes to play fair.
- Respect the important leadership role you play within the dynamics of high school athletics. Fans, players and parents mimic your behavior.
- Respect officials for their efforts in keeping the game within a set of boundaries. Recognize that a neutral observer of an event will not always agree with your perception.
- Respect the language you use in communicating with athletes. Would you talk to their parents the same way?
- Respect that high school athletics is based on an education model. As teachers you are entrusted with impressionable young people. Your responsibility to your athletes begins by respecting every player and his or her set of life experiences.

Never Forget To Respect the Game

Players

Respect the Game

- Respect your opponents as fellow athletes and worthy competitors; like you, they have worked hard to represent their school.
- Respect your teammates. Everyone makes a contribution to the team in his or her own way. Respect everyone's effort.
- Respect your coaches for their efforts in molding the team that represents your school.
- Respect officials for their efforts in keeping the game within a set of boundaries. Recognize that a neutral observer of an event will not always agree with your perceptions.
- Respect yourself. What you do is a reflection on you, your school and your family.

Never Forget To Respect the Game

Parents

Respect the Game

- Respect the fact that all athletes are someone's son or daughter.
- Respect coaches and their decisions. Remember their job performance is on display at every game. Very few professions are so openly observed and publicly critiqued. Second guessing their work does not provide a positive atmosphere for the player, coach and parents.
- Respect a time and place to air concerns with the coach. After a game or practice is usually not the best time.
- Respect your son or daughter by realistically assessing their skills. Don't relive your experiences through them.
- Respect the educational component of school athletics. Remind your son or daughter that there is many times more money available for academic aid to college than there is for athletic aid.

Never Forget To Respect the Game

Fans

Respect the Game

- Respect all athletes because they are representatives of their school. They are not the enemy but fellow competitors in athletic games designed to mold character.
- Respect all opponents along with their symbols, traditions and heritage. That includes student-athletes, coaches, cheerleaders, mascots, bands, signage, logos, etc. They are supporting their team as you are supporting your team.
- Respect all fans as they are merely encouraging their teams as you are encouraging your team.
- Respect our country, its flag and anthem. Recognize our blessings as a nation allow us the ability to compete in today's contest.
- Respect officials and the role they need to play. The game needs them in order to be contested. Remember calls go both ways and we should respect their honest assessment of the rules.

Never Forget To Respect the Game

PA Announcers

Respect the Game

1. Be organized and prepared. This item really speaks for itself, but the good PA announcer will have announcements and forms prepared ahead of time to facilitate his or her job. Being prepared simply means that PA personnel are better able to handle the announcements for emergency situations as they arise.
2. Check that all equipment operates properly. There is more to be concerned with than just a properly working microphone. Do not forget about tape and cassette players, electronic message centers, and so forth. Often, announcements are to be synchronized with songs or scripts, so ensuring that all equipment works properly will make for a quality presentation.
3. Be professional and unbiased. High school sport announcers should not imitate the styles and antics of some college and/or professional PA personnel who draw attention to themselves and away from the athletic contest.
4. Speak slowly, clearly, and distinctly always! Of these, “slowly” is most important. Not only does the announcer need to be heard, he or she also must be easily understood.
5. Say only what is necessary. Talking all the time and speaking constantly into the microphone--especially with unnecessary comments and/or endless promotion--turns people off and makes them not want to listen. People who “turn off” the announcer may miss out on important, valuable, or emergency announcements.
6. Do not rush and do not panic on public service announcements or emergency announcements.
7. Do not attempt to do play-by-play.
8. Do not editorialize about or comment on any aspect of the game. The fastest and easiest way for an announcer to lose all respect and credibility with everyone at the contest (spectators, players, officials, coaches, and others) is to make a comment about or react to a game situation or outcome. As with item seven, this is not the announcer’s role or responsibility.
9. Be involved with the teams and the competition, not with yourself. Enjoy the competitive atmosphere of the game, meet or match and become excited about the young people who are performing. Do not become wrapped up in yourself and excited to hear yourself talk.
10. The announcer is not the entertainment. The spectators came to watch the game and the players perform, to support the cheerleaders, to enjoy the band and its auxiliary units, to congratulate the homecoming courts, to see their neighbor’s kids, to observe special halftime activities--NOT TO LISTEN TO THE ANNOUNCER!
11. Give location of restrooms, concessions, and lost-and-found station.

Respect the Game

Participation in sound and wholesome athletic programs is an extension of the educational experience. Cooperation and competition are both important components of life and, as such, it is important for administrators, athletic directors, and coaches to do everything possible to create a climate conducive to good sportsmanship. A crowd faced with a disorganized event is more prone to become disruptive. These procedures are designed to help promote a wholesome atmosphere, encourage good sportsmanship, and provide a safe experience for all students, athletes, officials, and spectators at athletic events.

Local schools, school systems, and sports statewide have a wide variety of different needs. The following checklist was prepared for the athletic director/game manager to be used and modified as needed and as appropriate.

SURVEY

Respect the Game

The MPSSAA took a survey on the status of sportsmanship in Maryland high school athletics. With over 1,500 responses, the MPSSAA was able to take a closer look at opinions of those involved in high school athletics and how they view the state of sportsmanship. The following is the overall results from the survey.

Never Forget To Respect the Game.

What Does Respect the Game Mean To You?

"Respect The Game" means that the rules of the game are applied and adhered to by all concerned. The referees, players and coaches all follow the rules of the game. If the coaches and players set this standard and adhere to it, I believe the fans will follow suit.

--- MPSSAA Parent

"Respect The Game" means to compete to the best of your abilities within the rules of the sport at all times, while treating opponents and officials with the dignity that you would expect for yourself.

--- MPSSAA Fan

"Respect The Game" means that you should play the game in as mature and responsible way as possible and have fun doing so. You shouldn't berate anyone playing, coaching or officiating.

--- MPSSAA Student-Athlete

"Respect The Game" means respecting traditions of a particular sport. Behaving with dignity and class when winning or losing.

--- MPSSAA Official

"Respect The Game" means to abide by ALL of the rules of the particular sport and to compete in a manner that brings out the best in yourself, your teammates and your opposition.

--- MPSSAA Coach

"Respect The Game" is understanding that any game presents unique "teachable moments" that are difficult to find anywhere else for our kids. It means allowing coaches to teach sportsmanship, how to deal with failure and what it means to be a team member when you might have to sacrifice the "I" for the "We".

--- MPSSAA Administrator

"Respect The Game" means that everyone involved in a contest whether a player, coach or fan must adhere to conduct that does not take away from the spirit of fair play. Respect must be demonstrated by each participant or spectator.

--- MPSSAA Principal
