Good evening PEW families,

We wanted to provide an update for Wednesday’s schedule. This week there are no small groups in place as that teachers are in the process of formulating small groups. As such, tomorrow, Wednesday September 2nd, 2020 is an asynchronous learning day. There will be NO live Zoom sessions but all students will have a chance to review any missed assignments in their Google classroom or other platforms. Students will also have an opportunity to review any presentations, learning materials or resources to ensure that all assignments have been submitted. Students will be marked present if they participate in any of these activities throughout the day. Teachers will also have open office hours and will be available for any help or questions. You may contact your individual child’s teacher for their specific office hours. We thank everyone for their support as we continue on this learning journey together. Have a great evening.
